

BONDS RISE, EQUITIES DIP ON WEAK US LABOR DATA

Weekly Review: 28 July to 01 August 2025

What Happened Last Week

- U.S. equities fell following weaker-than-expected labor data, while bonds rose as rate cut expectations strengthened.
 - July Nonfarm payrolls increased by just 73,000, well below the 104,000 forecast. The previous two months saw a combined downward revision of 258,000 jobs.
 - July unemployment rate edged up to 4.2% in July from 4.1%.
- Local bond and equities mirrored US market movements. Equities were further pressured by the Peso's depreciation and concerns over BDO's earnings.
 - BDO fell 6% week-on-week after reporting a modest 3% 2Q earnings growth, missing estimates due to higher operating costs.
- The Philippine peso hit a two-year low as odds of a September FOMC rate cut fell, compounding the Philippines' twin deficit problem.
 - Fed Chair Powell kept rates steady, citing solid growth and a balanced labor market. He noted that tariff effects are uncertain and policy remains flexible.
 - President Marcos' SONA push for fuel subsidies or tax suspensions may worsen fiscal deficits.
- Asset prices Week-on-Week (WoW) and Year-to-Date (YTD)
